HEAVY TASK FOR STRESA PARLEY

MUSSOLINI'S FOUR POINT AGENDA

IN QUEST OF SECURITY FOR ALL NATIONS

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, April 6, 9.30 a.m.)

London, April 5.

The Foreign Office, according to the most reliable information, has received from Signor Mussolini a four-point agenda for the Stresa Conference, at which Britain, France and Italy, as the major participants, will endeavour to evolve a common policy for the preservation of the peace of Europe and for the maintenance of their own and lesser powers' security.

Signor Mussolini suggests, in the first place, the formulation of a three-power policy between Britain, France and Italy with respect to Germany's repudiation of the Treaty of Versailles. He would have these three nations agreed upon the tactics they are to adopt towards Germany at the coming session of the League of Nations Council.

The second point of the agenda embraces discussions for the examination of the possibility of alignment on a common front in respect to the fulfilment of the Franco-British European security proposals, contained in a communiqué of February 3.

This Franco-British plan included the formation of a defensive air alliance.

Signor Mussolini suggests the desirability of enlisting the co-operation of other interested powers.

The third point for the Stresa Conference to consider will be the delicate problem of Austrian independence, plus a means of safeguarding Austria's integrity. This matter, to Italy, is one of the most vital.

The fourth and last question for consideration at the parley is the suggestion of revision of the post-war treaties to which Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria are bound, notably the Treaty of St. Germain.—United Press.

FRENCH MEMORANDUM

Paris, April 5.

A Memorandum setting forth France's reasons for appealing to the League of Nations Council against Germany's latest infringement of the Versailles Treaty, and a draft resolution for submission to the Council, will be submitted at the Stresa conference by M. Laval, Foreign Minister.

It is hoped in Paris that the resolution may be presented to the League jointly by Britain, France and Italy.

It is understood that the Italian Government recently requested preliminary information with regard to Anglo-French views for organisation of collective security and the maintenance of Austrian independence. It is believed that the eventualities of re-armament by the small Powers was also alluded to.

THE LITTLE ENTENTE

Paris, like Rome, attaches the greatest importance to safeguarding the independence of Austria, but considers that the consent of the Little Entente is essential to the revision of the military clauses of the treaties with Bulgaria, Austria and Hungary.

It is understood that the French Government will propose a formula of European scope on such a basis as, it is hoped, will obtain the agreement of the three Powers as well as Russia.—Reuter.

SHANGHAI JOCKEY'S SUICIDE

MR. SHIH CHIN-SHANG TAKES POISON

Shanghai, April 5.

Mr. Shih Chin-shang, a noted Chinese jockey in Shanghai, committed suicide by taking poison early this morning at his home.

He was rushed to Nanyang Hospital for treatment by his relatives but succumbed some time after being admitted.—Central News.

INFLATION AHEAD OF AMERICA

BI-METALLIC PLAN PUT FORWARD

SILVER BLOC PROPOSAL

Washington, April 5.

The Silver Bloc in the Administration to-day opened a two-day conference under the auspices of the National Silver Association, presided over by ex-Governor Allen of Montana.

Speaking at the conference to-day, Representative Martin Dies, Democrat of Texas, said that the United States had only two choices of policy.

Firstly, paper money inflation, or, secondly, inflating the metallic monetary system.

Representative Dies said that the latter policy was the only solution which could be accomplished through the immediate remonetisation of silver.

Such a form of inflation, he said, would be controlled and it very nature would be sufficient to raise commodity prices to a parity with the debt structure.

Further he said that conditions had never been more favourable for the establishment of a world-wide bi-metallic standard.

He said: "The United States is now in a position to compel the world to adopt a bi-metallic standard, because it is at present the world's largest creditor nation, export nation and gold holder nation."

The conference passed a resolution to appoint a special committee to study the silver question relative to China and the United States.

This motion was made by Mr. Paul Lineberger, who represented himself as China's legal adviser.—United Press.

KEEPING TROOPS WITH COLOURS

Paris, April 5.

The Supreme War Council to-day voted in favour of retaining with the colours for at least three months longer the half-year contingent of conscripts who are due to be disbanded on April 13.

This decision was taken in view of the seriousness of the European situation and the general feeling of apprehension in France that Germany's decision to re-arm may have dangerous repercussions in the world capitals.—Reuter.

FRENCH WAR COUNCIL TAKES PRECAUTIONS

Paris, April 5.

The Japanese Foreign Office indicated to-day that the situation regarding a loan to China is very perplexing due to lack of any official information.

An official to-day said that Japan had never received any definite proposals to participate in a loan.

He added that in the event of Great Britain sending experts to examine China's financial and economic condition "that would be a matter between the Chinese and British."

"We cannot interfere and certainly we have never made any proposals regarding a loan to China."

Mr. Kenji Takaoka (extreme left), and Mr. Momoisburo Shinno, mechanic and pilot of the "Asahi" goodwill plane, snapped shortly after their arrival at Nanking.

Ex-Governor Faces Long Prison Term

INSTIGATED FOREIGN MENACE

LIKELY TO APPEAL

The charge was the conclusion of a provisional agreement between Sinkiang and the Soviet authorities, made without the approval of the Nanking Government.

Chin Shu-jen maintains that he was acting, as he thought, in the best interest of China, and strenuously denies that he had any thought or opportunity of himself benefiting from the arrangement with the Soviet.

Chin Shu-jen was simultaneously charged with almost every other crime in the statutes but was acquitted on all counts. He pleaded not guilty to the charge on which he was convicted, as well as to the charges of embezzling enormous amounts of public funds, mass murders, arson and robbery.

It is understood that the prisoner intends to appeal to the Supreme Court.—Reuter.

EXPORT DUTY TO BE CUT

DR. KUNG GIVES ASSURANCE

(Special to "Telegraph")

Nanking, April 5.

In an interview with the United Press to-day, Dr. H. H. Kung the Minister of Finance stated that the export duties would definitely be reduced as from June 1.

He also denied that Mr. Chan Kiang-nai had declined the appointment as Deputy Governor of the Central Bank.

Mr. Chang, he said, had simply asked for a brief leave of absence. Questioned regarding the loan to China, Dr. Kung said that negotiations were still proceeding but revelation of the details now would be premature.—United Press.

JAPAN PERPLEXED

Tokyo, April 5.

The Japanese Foreign Office indicated to-day that the situation regarding a loan to China is very perplexing due to lack of any official information.

An official to-day said that Japan had never received any definite proposals to participate in a loan.

He added that in the event of Great Britain sending experts to examine China's financial and economic condition "that would be a matter between the Chinese and British."

"We cannot interfere and certainly we have never made any proposals regarding a loan to China."

SIMPLE APPEAL METHOD

AMENDING LOCAL ORDINANCE

FOR BENEFIT OF ACCUSED

Provision of a cheap, simple and direct method of appeal from a Magistrate's conviction or sentence, to a Judge of the Supreme Court, is proposed under the draft of an Ordinance to amend the Magistrates Ordinance of 1932.

It is laid down in the amending Ordinance that any person aggrieved by any conviction of a Magistrate in respect of any offence, who did not plead guilty or admit the truth of the information or complaint, may appeal from the conviction to a Judge of the Supreme Court; and that any person who after pleading guilty or admitting the truth of the information or complaint is convicted of any offence by a magistrate may appeal to a Judge in like manner against his sentence.

The powers and duties of a Judge with respect to such appeals shall be exercised and performed by such one of the Judges as the Chief Justice shall arrange.

METHOD OF APPEAL.

In the case of any such appeal either party to the appeal may be heard in person, or by any barrister, advocate or solicitor having the right of audience before any court in this Colony, except in the case of an appeal or any point in an appeal reserved for hearing or directed to be argued before the Full Court under paragraph (4), for which hearing or argument the practice of the Full Court shall apply without modification.

The Judge, if he thinks additional evidence to be necessary, may receive such evidence, and for that purpose shall have the like powers under paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of subsection (3) of section 78A of the Criminal Procedure Ordinance, 1899, that the Full Court would have had if the appeal had been an appeal to which that section applied, and the Judge may issue any process necessary for enforcing the exercise of such powers.

STAY OF EXECUTION.

Except in the case of whipping, which shall be stayed pending appeal, the appeal shall not operate as a stay of execution, but the magistrate or the Judge may stay execution or sentence pending the appeal on such terms as to security for the payment of any money or the suffering of any punishment ordered by or in such conviction or sentence as to the (Continued on Page 9.)

Shanghai, Apr. 5.

Marquis Li Kuo-chia, grandson of the famous Li Hung-chang, was sentenced by the High Court of Kiangsu Province yesterday to one year and two months' imprisonment on a charge of abusing his privileges during his tenure of office as managing director of the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company, Ltd., by selling a wharf at Shanghai, which was the property of the company, and also illegally paying Mr. Chen Fu-mo, then Superintendent of the same concern, a sum of 700,000 taels from the funds of the Company.

The High Court of Kiangsu Province also gave judgment that the defendant shall compensate the Company with a sum of 700,000 taels with eight per cent. interest.—Central News.

AUTOMATIC BRAIN SENT ALOFT

(Special to "Telegraph")

Moscow, April 5.

A height of 130,000 feet was reached to-day by an automatic stratosphere sounding balloon, without passengers.

The Soviet claims this as a world record.

The balloon, which was equipped with an automatic brain, actually a wireless installation, broadcast signals of the progress of the flight.

The balloon ascended at 15 miles an hour. The lowest temperature recorded was 70 degrees below zero, at an altitude of 30,000 feet.—Reuter Special.

DULL DAY ON EXCHANGE

Shanghai, April 6.

The Foreign Exchange Market opened with rates around yesterday's closing levels.

The lack of early transactions indicated that to-day will provide another dull session.

Authoritative observers say that they anticipate that Shanghai would be influenced very little in the event of disintegration in the gold bloc nations, since there is very little local trading in guilders and francs.

It is also pointed out that Belgium's abandonment of gold was not felt in Shanghai.—United Press.

EUROPE'S PLIGHT NOT HOPELESS

EDEN RETURNS FROM PEACE MISSION

BRITAIN MUST FIRMLY SUPPORT LEAGUE

London, April 5.

Fresh from his flying tour of European capitals in the cause of peace, Mr. Anthony Eden, Britain's Lord Privy Seal, arrived at Victoria Station at 8.43 o'clock to-night, and was warmly welcomed by friends, Government representatives and a crowd of admirers.

His travels had been strenuous, he admitted, but really very useful. He did not admit that he was weary to the point of exhaustion, although he was sent to bed on doctor's orders last night when he was attempting to press on to England by air despite the stormy weather.

The difficulties of the European situation were undoubtedly formidable, but were by no means insurmountable, said this envoy of good-will.

FEAR OF SLUMP IN GUILDERS

RUMOURS FLY IN PARIS

CAUSE RAPID DECLINE

(Special to "Telegraph")

Paris, April 5.

A report received in the Paris market that the Netherlands Bank had refused to make any further shipments of gold to Paris caused guilders to drop immediately, from 10.17 to 10.10 1/2, with three months' discount rising from 27 to 35 cents.

The market considers that if this report is true, guilders are definitely off the gold standard.

London reports that guilders opened at 7.22 and are now being offered at 7.25.

Amsterdam messages state that the alarm raised in Paris is unjustified since there has been no refusal to ship gold to Paris, but the Netherlands Bank, following its customary rule, only delivered gold up to noon. It will re-start its shipping as usual to-morrow morning. Well-informed circles consider fears of depreciation of guilders are entirely without foundation.—Reuter Special.

Lithuanian Protest

Berlin, April 5.

The Lithuanian Government has despatched a note protesting against "the interference of Germany in the internal affairs of Lithuania."

The note was presented to the German Foreign Minister, Baron von Neurath, by the Lithuanian Minister here to-day.

The note further protests against the anti-Lithuanian radio and press campaign being conducted in Germany and also against the demonstration against the Lithuanian legations and consulates throughout Germany.—Reuter Special.

British Actor's "No" to Greta Garbo

TOO LONG AWAY

Mr. Gyles Isham, the well-known young British actor (son and heir of 73-year-old Sir Vere Isham, Bart.), has declined the offer to appear with Greta Garbo in a Hollywood film, an adaptation of Tolstoy's "Anna Karenina."

Speaking to a reporter, he said:—"I'm afraid I have had to decline the offer. My decision was made to-day."

"There are two chief reasons why I have done this. Had I signed a contract to appear with Greta Garbo I should have had to remain in Hollywood for five years—that was part of the contract."

"But I cannot bring myself to do this and so give up my interests in the British stage and films."

"The second reason is that I should like to leave my father for such a long time. He was recently in a rather bad accident, and I am looking after his estate for him."

"Of course, I am extremely sorry to disappoint Miss Garbo. I should have enjoyed making a picture with her very much, but unless I can go to Hollywood for one film and then come back I shall have to remain in England."

Gyles Isham, who is now appearing in a London West End play, is busy with a part in the Jubilee film being made by a British company. He plays the role of a British officer during the King's serious illness. He was president of the Oxford University Dramatic Society. His family have some connection with California.

FILMING DICKENS

Hugh Walpole, the novelist, talked of his experiences in Hollywood at a luncheon in London to celebrate the filming of "David Copperfield."

When he was allowed to write a small contribution to the scenario, he said, he thought it the simplest matter in the world. He handed in the manuscript. "I thought," he observed, "great praise would be mine."

But when he went to see about it later he found his little effort lying on Mr. David Selznick's desk. Upon it was written, one word, "Lousy."

Dealing with the choice of Freddie Bartholomew to play David as a boy, he said that for a long while the M.G.M. studios were filled with eager, passionate, and horribly mature little boys.

"Horrible as they were," he said, "the mothers were worse. I never saw anything more reprehensible than the eager, savage look of the mothers as they followed with their eyes their children's entrance to Mr. Selznick's room."

"When Charles Laughton shaved his head for the part of Mr. Micawber in a way he looked divinely perfect. But when he began to act, Laughton himself felt that he was not getting into the character."

"All the babies in the studio began to scream and shriek as soon as they saw him, and Laughton himself, though it meant a sacrifice to him, urged us to get W. C. Fields."

"I've only one little suggestion," said the American censor, Mr. Joseph Breen (according to Mr. Walpole) when the story was submitted to him. "I do hope you'll see that the changing of the baby's diapers is done with decency."

EXOTIC CREATIONS AT THE COOKERY EXHIBITION

EXOTIC creations of world-famous chefs and meals prepared for 7½d a head offered a contrast at the Universal Cookery and Food Exhibition. Ardent horticulturists who visited the New Royal Horticultural Hall, Westminster, for the opening of the exhibition might well have thought they had mistaken the date. Culinary artists had prepared baskets of spring flowers in sugar, roses in marzipan, a bouquet of dahlias fashioned from lobster shells—it took 18 months to make—and cooked potatoes dished to look like green peas in pod. One gold medallist, Mr. L. Chuard, of St. Leonard's, was showing a sugar model of Queen Mary, valued at £85.

Twenty-three of the 52 classes were devoted to the domestic section where housewives, domestic cooks, amateurs, and Army and Navy cooks are competing. Sixteen women entered dishes for a dinner for four, "economical, yet nourishing," not to cost more than 7½d a head. Here was one five-course menu: Vegetable soup; Fried herrings; mashed potatoes and onion; watercress and brown bread; suet pudding and syrup; and an orange. Mr. G. Reeves-Smith, vice-chairman of the Savoy Hotel, offered a 25 guinea cup for the best recipes for vegetable soups which, he complains, are almost unknown in this country. In his opinion he has the support of the Universal Cookery and Food Association (Mr. I. Kriens, chairman). "Domestic cookery," he said, "has never been so bad in this country as it is now. It is a dying art, and the rising generation are the worst cooks in history. Service flats, servant problems, cocktails, and the ever-growing desire for amusement have lured women away from their kitchens."

In the 1890's. Later the same unit will travel to South Africa to commence film sequences to be included in the screen life of Cecil Rhodes. Preparations are being made for the screening of a story named "The Barrier," dealing with the heroism and fortitude of the men who made the Canadian Pacific Railway possible across the barrier of the Rockies.

"PEG OF OLD DRURY" STARTS
Following upon Sir Cedric Harwicke's return from Hollywood, Herbert Wilcox has begun shooting at the British and Dominions Studios on "Peg of Old Drury," in which Sir Cedric plays David Garrick to Anna Neagle's Peg Woffington.

The period of "Peg of Old Drury" is the middle of the eighteenth century. Among the characters of the time who will figure in the film are the elder Pitt, Pope, Johnson, Boswell, Joshua Reynolds, and Oliver Goldsmith.

SCHOOL DAYS OF EIGHTIESSTARTED WITH
BIBLE LESSON

By AN OLD BOY

Boys of to-day, with all their games and societies, hot meals, and all kinds of school interests and comforts, can scarcely realise how different were the schooldays of boys in the 'eighties.

I did not go to school until I was eight years old, having been taught the alphabet and to count up to one hundred at home. I went to a private school for boys kept by a retired minister of the Free Church of Scotland. There were about thirty pupils of all ages in the school.

Imagine a class of small boys clad in clumsy tweed suits with trousers reaching below the knees, vests buttoned up to the neck, stiff Eton collars over their coat collars, and narrow silk ties tied into bows in front. Stockings covered the knees and heavy boots were worn. Caps were compulsory, and they were made of tweed. In summer round sailor hats of hard straw were worn.

The day began with a Bible lesson. We had to know the Shorter Catechism and repeat Psalms. Many a boy was thrashed for not knowing his Bible lesson. We did all our sums on slates and learned to write in copybooks. We had a special master for writing. To this day I can hear him calling out, "A thin up stroke and a thick down stroke, boys."

Once a week there was a singing lesson. A visiting master taught us. He was a funny little man clad in a black surcoat. He accompanied our singing on a concertina.

During the lunch interval we played a kind of football without goal-posts in the playground, which was covered with thick gravel.

At one o'clock most of us went home to dinner. We returned to school at two o'clock and stayed till four. If we didn't know our lessons we were kept in or given the tawse. Only specially bad boys were caned.

After school was over we played games in the streets. It was considered a great thing to possess a tricycle. On Saturdays we went to tea to each other's homes and played games. Most of us received a Saturday penny, but there were a few rich boys lucky enough to get sixpence.

Eighteenth century. Among the characters of the time who will figure in the film are the elder Pitt, Pope, Johnson, Boswell, Joshua Reynolds, and Oliver Goldsmith.

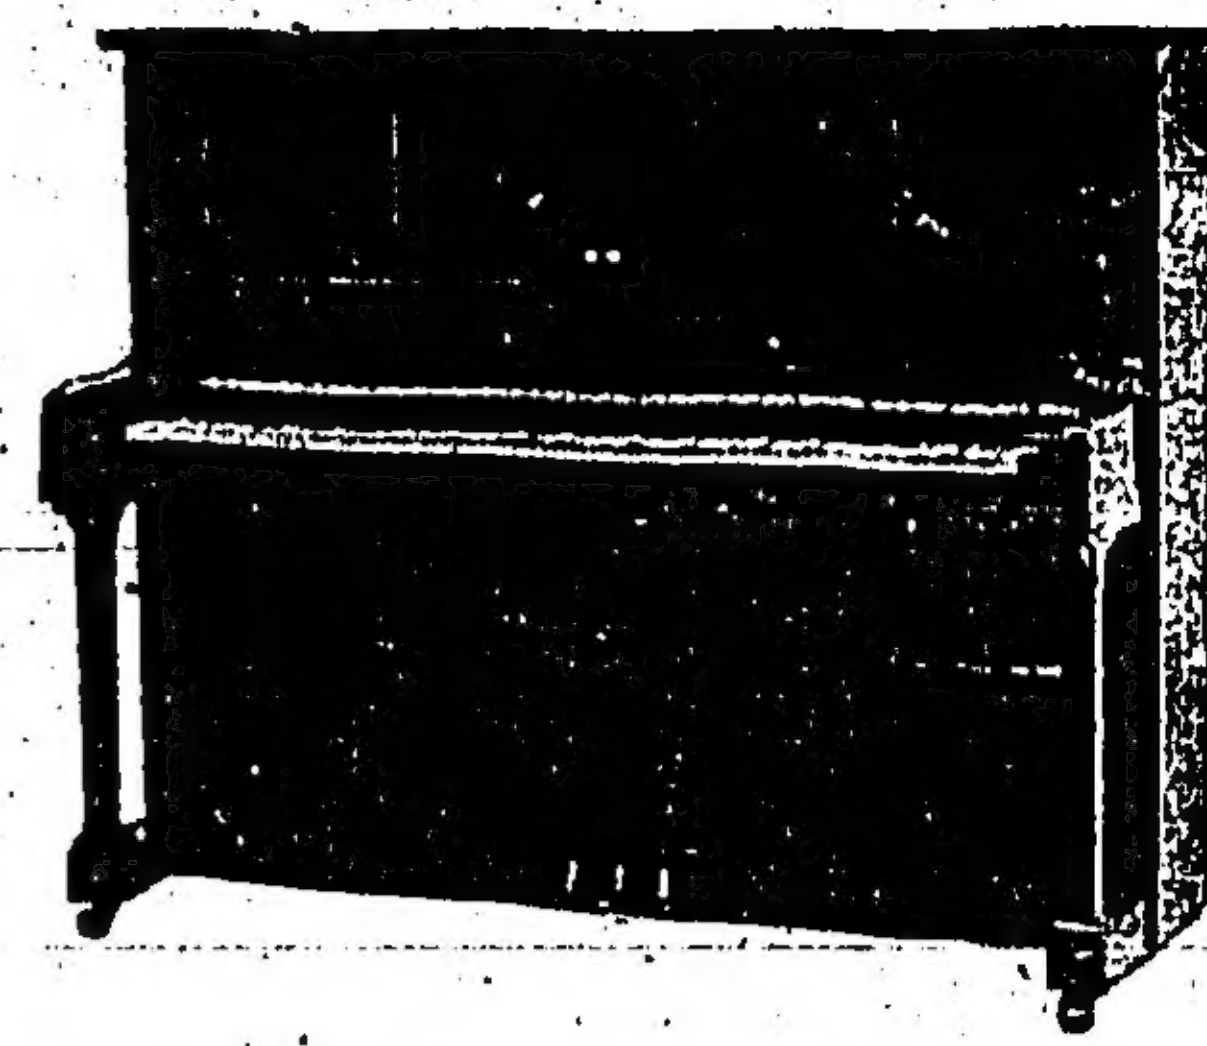

NEW POST FOR LOTHAR
MENDES

Lothar Mendes will in future direct films for London Film Productions. He has just been signed for this company.

He began his career under the tutelage of Max Reinhardt in Berlin and Vienna, and then joined U.F.A. as a director. His first Hollywood picture was "Prince of Tompkins." One of his best-known films is probably "The Four Feathers," which he directed for Paramount. Other films include "Dangerous Curves," "Illusion," "Paramount on Parade," "Ladies Man," and "Payment Deferred." He also directed the British picture, "Jew Suss."

Never in the history of fashion have hats been better conceived to show off hair. These charming small "flower" hats of velvet, for example, Betty Davis is of violet—a masterpiece with her blue eyes. It has a quaint air that is greatly enhanced by her coiffure. This time she brings the sides up softly above the ears and catches them on the top of the head in 1880 style. Curls fall gently down the back. The eyes and the hat hold the spotlight here, so Betty wisely shades off her cheek rouge into nothingness but colours her lips fully.

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

When the gamut of a life-time of human emotions can be crammed within the brief span of eight hours, then that is something worth talking about. This is exactly what Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has accomplished in one of the most unusual and speediest screen stories to reach the screen lately. It is "Society Doctor," a gripping drama of life within the walls of a metropolitan emergency hospital, which is coming shortly to Queen's Theatre. The picture is laudable for one reason above all others. It brings to the screen a new team of lovers who, we hope, will be seen in other future pictures. They are Chester Morris and Virginia Bruce, the first being always dependable for an excellent performance, the latter having just emerged from two years of screen retirement to contribute the finest performance of her career. Too, there is a third person of whom you will hear more. A newcomer to the screen, his name is Robert Taylor, an excellent actor who, we understand, is a product of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer dramatic school for its newly discovered talent. The story is that of two young internes, Morris and Taylor who compete for the attentions of a pretty, sensible nurse, Miss Bruce. Seldom has a more fast-moving drama been on the screen and it is highly recommended. As for the direction, by George Seitz, it has been very efficiently done. Excellent performances are contributed by Billie Burke, William Henry, Henry Kolker, Raymond Walburn, Dorothy Peterson and Johnny Hines.

"The First World War"

"Humanity's greatest confession." The phrase has been used to describe the notable volume of war photographs edited by Laurence Stallings. "The First World War," which for many months has been a best-seller not only in the United States but in Europe as well. Now this volume has been the inspiration for a thrilling motion picture, likewise edited by Laurence Stallings and likewise titled "The First World War." It is showing currently at the King's Theatre. The international interest in this sensational book may be indicated by

SHE WAS GETTING FATTER

Now Down to Normal

"I was putting on flesh very rapidly," writes a married woman, "and also suffering from constipation, and was very liverish. Three months ago a friend advised me to take a teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in hot water every morning. I have kept this up regularly ever since, although I have been down to my normal weight (126 lbs.) for several weeks. I never felt better in my life, and I intend to carry on with Kruschen always. Several of my friends have remarked how slim I was getting and how well I was looking. After my having told them how it was done, they are doing the same."—(Mrs.) D. H.

Overweight arises frequently because the system is loaded with unexpelled waste, like a furnace choked with ashes and soot. Allowed to accumulate, this waste matter is turned into layer after layer of fat. The six salts in Kruschen assist the internal organs to throw off each day all waste and poisons that encumber the system.

A brief survey of its recent sales. Its original edition of 32,000 copies, published by Simon and Schuster, was sold at a retail price of $3.75. The Book of the Month Club distributed 60,000 additional copies at the same price in America. In England, sponsored by the London Daily Mail, the Simon and Schuster edition sold 100,000 copies. A few months later, the publishers issued a "popular and somewhat abridged" edition in the United States. This was called "The History of the World War in Photographs." At a retail price of one dollar, it has so far sold 25,000 copies. The next step was the publication of an even cheaper edition, distributed through the Woolworth chain stores. This was called "The World War in Pictures." To date it has sold over 300,000 and is on the presses. These amazing figures indicate clearly that the World War is still a fascinating and gripping subject to many millions of readers. Now, it is pointed out, those same readers, viewing "The First World War" in its film version, will have the added advantage of seeing its contents "in action" no longer confined to the limits of the printed page.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES HUNTER

Twenty-five years ago, Mr. James Hunter, Superintendent of the Gas and China Gas Co., was married in Hongkong to Miss Catherine Thompson.

SONGS AND HEROES
OF THE PEOPLE

"THE KINGDOM OF THE NORTH"

By ALAN S. C. ROSS

The Centenary Jubilee of the Kalevala, Finland's national epic, which was celebrated in Finland recently by the Finns, and also by Kalevala scholars from all over the world, is of such great importance because for exactly a century the Kalevala had been the national emblem of the Finnish race.

During the last century the Finns have passed through times of tribulation and oppression, and then the Kalevala consoled them and brought them a promise of hope; now, at last, with their independence, they have entered into their rightful heritage, and the Kalevala still inspires them. It has had a profound influence upon Finnish painting, sculpture and, particularly, music—the work of Sibelius, for which there is such a vogue in England at the moment, is a case in point.

It is a sad commentary on the way general knowledge is taught (or rather not taught) in this country that few English people know what the Kalevala is and that still fewer have read it. Briefly the Kalevala is a folk-epic, and it is numbered among those dozen or so which constitute the world's great epics.

THE STORY

The poem as we read it to-day may be described as follows: It is a series of connected lays written in a metre which is familiar to all English people, namely the metre of Longfellow's "Song of Hiawatha" (Longfellow, during a stay in Sweden, read Schiefner's German translation of the Kalevala, and was so struck by the beauty of the poem that he borrowed both its metre and arrangement for use in his "Hiawatha").

The story deals with the heroic adventures of certain Finnish epic figures: Väinämöinen "the old and steadfast," Joukahainen "the young," the smith Ilmarinen "the eternal forger," and others. In it there are many primitive myths (e.g. the Creation-myth of "the birth of Väinämöinen," "the birth of iron," etc.), passages of magical significance (e.g. the story of Väinämöinen's magic "singing" of Joukahainen into a swamp), and many of great lyrical beauty (e.g. the story of the tragic escape of the young virgin Aino from the wooing of Väinämöinen). The central part of the Kalevala deals with the forging of the magic Sampo—not the least curious point is that no one has any idea as to what the Sampo was—which brings wealth and prosperity to its owner.

A LIVING TRADITION

But in reality the Kalevala is not quite what it appears to be to-day to be (for instance in the school edition with which every good Finnish child is familiar). Early in the nineteenth century philologists began to realize that there was in Finland a vast, unexplored store-house of folk poetry, and the great philologist, Elias Lönnrot, made journeys into distant parts of the country to collect

A BROKEN DOWN SYSTEM.

This is a condition (or disease) to which many names are given but few really understand. It is simply weakness—a break down as it were, of the vital forces that sustain the system. No matter what may be its cause (they are almost numberless), its symptoms are much the same: the more prominent being sleeplessness, sense of prostration or weakness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. Now, what alone is essential in all such cases is increased vitality, vigour, strength and energy to throw off these morbid feelings, and as night succeeds the day, this may be more easily effected by a course of it. He found that in Karelia (the eastern part of Finland, which is even to-day the widest part of the country) certain old men were in the habit of chanting long folk lays. These he collected and combined into a composite whole. Exactly one hundred years ago last Thursday, on February 28, 1835, Lonnrot signed his foreword to the first edition of the Kalevala, and this day is celebrated in Finland as "Kalevala Day."

The Kalevala is written in Finnish, and Finnish is (with the exception of Basque) the most difficult language in Europe. Moreover, it is not even written in standard Finnish (thus it cannot be read in school in Finland without the aid of a glossary) but in the Karelian dialect of Finnish. The study and appreciation of the Kalevala is therefore only for Finns, or for those few persons who are interested in Finno-Ugric philology (the philology of the group of languages to which Finnish, and also Estonian, Hungarian, Lappish, and a number of lesser-known languages in the U.S.S.R. belong). The rest of the world must rely on translations which, besides being often grossly inaccurate, can never represent the great beauty of the Finnish language (Finnish competes with Italian and Russian for the honour of being the world's most beautiful language).

The study of the Kalevala is thus, by its very nature, a philological one. Nowhere is philology more actively studied than in Finland (the very schoolchildren seem to know the rudiments of it) and naturally no philological subject has been as much studied in Finland as the Kalevala.

MODERN RESEARCH

It is, therefore, not surprising that ideas to-day about the Kalevala are very different from what they were fifty years ago. Then it was widely believed that the Kalevala—with its everpresent struggle against cold, gloomy Pohjola "the Kingdom of the North"—reflected something like the Golden Age of Finland, an age of great heroes and much song. Nowadays scientific research has shown us the true nature of the Kalevala in a clearer light—it is, in a word, not so much a collected whole, as a selection.

The lays which Lonnrot collected a hundred years ago are not the only ones; in Finland an enormous number of somewhat similar heroic lays have been collected (those so far published fill thirty large quarto volumes)—and, in Estonia (like the Germans and the Dutch, the Finns and Estonians are close relations) there is a similar epic (the Kalevabog) and a quantity of folk-lays.

To-day, therefore, the Kalevala represents for us a vast body of folk-tradition, full of stories of gods and heroes (and some of it), like all folklore, of immense antiquity. But running through it all there is the essential Finnishness which is its charm. Anyone who knows the Kalevala well will agree that the type of folklore in it is even more characteristic than, for instance, the Celtic folk-lore so well known to us here in England.

And so research has not, as is so often the case, destroyed a national emblem, but has rather enhanced its value, and we may envy the Finns a literary genre to which we in England have nothing in the least comparable.

It is to be hoped that the Kalevala-celebration may stimulate people in this country, if only a few, to a more active interest in this distant but fascinating land, in its people, its literature, and its language.

1 Garden Street,
Middle Brighton, S.S.
15/12/32

Dear Sirs,
Last week I had 18 teeth out, and not being well my nerves were in a terrible way; in fact, I had to be taken home from the dentist. I went on for a couple of days in terrible pain with my head and eyes, due to my nerves, so I had to go to a doctor. On my way home I bought a packet of 'ASPRO'. I took three and laid down, and to my surprise I woke up feeling lovely. Now, if I feel a slight headache at all I fly to my 'ASPRO'. I think 'ASPRO' should be in every home. I could mention a few more facts where 'ASPRO' has done good in my home. Once tried, always used.

TRAFFIC DANGERS

The frequency with which drivers of motor lorries are brought before the Courts for excessive speed and other offences is an indication that the manner in which many of these vehicles are driven constitutes a menace to other users of the roads. All commercial vehicles are required to observe a speed-limit which is plainly marked on the chassis, but in actual practice the limit is exceeded by practically every lorry in the Colony. Almost any day of the week these vehicles can be seen careering through populous districts and round dangerous bends to the manifest danger of car-drivers and pedestrians alike. The traffic police endeavour to restrict the evil as much as possible, but they are confronted with an almost superhuman task. The best that can be done, under existing conditions, is to prosecute offenders and to urge the full penalties of the law on those who are caught. Combined with this speeding danger is another factor which calls for constant vigilance, namely, the carrying of long, projecting loads, mainly steel rods and bamboo poles. There are regulations in force on this matter, providing that the total length of such loads shall not exceed twenty-five feet, whilst permits for such loads, which may only be carried during certain hours of the day, have to be secured. The loads may project from either end, but, so far as we are aware, there is nothing limiting the extent to which a load may actually extend beyond the chassis of the vehicle. If that is the case, it would appear high time that some restriction covering this point should be imposed. One of the principal sources of danger lies in the fact that many of these lorries have open fronts, the consequence being that the loads project at a level which is distinctly dangerous to passing vehicles. This is particularly noticeable where, as in the case of steel rods, the loads sag down towards the road surface. A grim example of the danger of these projecting loads was provided recently in the Island Road tragedy. Such danger would be materially reduced if some regulation were made both as to the extent of the overlap and its height from the road. The matter is one which the traffic authorities might well look into, as the need for action of some kind is urgent. Whatever the best method of dealing with the problem, there can be no questioning the point that the great majority of lorries on our roads are a menace to traffic in general; the wonder is that really serious mishaps are so few. Existing conditions call for the strictest possible control of these vehicles, and anything that the

DOING HER PART

Peace, the preservation of the race and a hard-won civilisation are the responsibilities of every nation. But the first essential to continuing happiness, and prosperity, too, though it be only relative, is peace. It is useless to complain that Governments have lost sight of the aims and objects which inspired the League of Nations, and it is not effective at this stage to resent a growing tendency to nationalism on the part of any people: though both are dangerous conditions. It is as true to-day, as it was twenty years ago, that a moment's thought will convince any sane man that War is a futile and disastrous expedient. War breeds war, though it be no more than a tribal affair, or a border foray by some remote nation of brigands. In such a trifling incident as that on the Abyssinian-Somaliland frontier, early this year, the seed of a world conflagration may be nourished. There is no use becoming vocal over such things, perhaps, nor flinging resentment at the heads of those who put their faith in armaments. But it will be a matter for future generations to condemn if, at this juncture, every statesman does not bend his every effort towards ameliorating the unreasonableness of the world and removing the causes thereof. We believe that Great Britain, through her Foreign Minister and Mr. Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, is doing her utmost to reinforce the crumbling walls of peace. We have seen indications that the Russian Soviet is endeavouring to assist in this work. There have been sympathetic receptions for Mr. Eden in Moscow, Warsaw and Prague. France is believed to be ready to make some compromise in order to effect an Eastern European pact which will yield greater security. All this is very gratifying.

RUSHING ARMAMENTS

At the same time these conferences in the nations' capitals are proceeding, and the former Allies are preparing to plan a peace preservation policy at a meeting at Stresa. Governments continue to rush their preparations for possible conflict. Germany has announced her intentions: she is going to continue re-arming. And that act, a violation of a treaty, though that treaty be unjust and outgrown, appears to have set alight a powder chain in Europe. Austria is demanding freedom to re-arm. Bulgaria and Hungary are clamouring for armaments. If the Versailles Treaty is not to be respected, the Treaty of St. Germain, also, might just as well be scrapped. This is a time, as we have said before, when a thoughtless act on the part of one nation may create a panic in the face of which the best intentions of the statesmen of the Powers will be helpless. Nations can be swayed into error like any mob; and statesmen are not immune from Spring-time of 1914 blunders. Let us remember those blunders of another generation and, in contrast, the fine example of such men as Sir Edward Grey, and as a nation continue in the role of peace-maker. Then, no matter what befalls, another age cannot reproach us.

ANNIVERSARIES

Silver Jubilee Year is rich in anniversaries. One of the most arresting of them commemorates the first occupation of No. 10 Downing Street by Prime Ministers. This unpretentious, world-renowned house in London was assigned to the First Lord of the Treasury by George II. in 1733, but it was not until September 22, 1761, that Sir Robert Walpole went to live there. Another bicentenary is that of the introduction of rubber from Brazil. Two Acts of Parliament became one hundred years old in 1935: the Municipal Corporations Act and the first act for the protection of domestic animals. Religious associations are linked with the four-hundredth anniversary of the death of Henry VIII; rather than acknowledge the King's supremacy over the Church. A part of his garden wall may still be seen in Chelsea. Of the literary centenaries, William Hemans died in 1836, and in this same year Samuel Butler, another of "The Way of All Flesh," was born. In 1636, was born John Arbuthnot, the Scotoman who created "John Bull." In the world of science Robert Hook, who was born on July 18, 1635, will be particularly remembered. And on November 16, three hundred years ago, "Old Par" was buried in Westminster Abbey, having died at the decidedly advanced age of 152.

traffic police can do in this direction, backed up by stern punishment of offenders, will undoubtedly receive public approval.

THE BLACKSHIRTS ARE MARCHING

By SIR OSWALD MOSLEY

THE Blackshirt movement was founded on October 1, 1932, with a handful of members. It originated a few months before in a small, cheap room on the first floor of a little house in King's-road, Chelsea.

We had practically no money, and no resources except faith and determination; yet within a year of the start the British Union of Fascists possessed more branches than it had members when we began.

To-day it is organised throughout Great Britain with some 400 branches of various categories and the strongest active membership of any movement which aims at the winning of power. We can claim that it has advanced more rapidly in these early days than any other Fascist movement in the world, and certainly it has become a stable and nation-wide organisation in a far shorter time than any of the movements or parties this country has known before.

The struggle has been severe. The Blackshirts have marched through a barrage of misrepresentation and highly organised opposition which would have broken a lesser faith. No one who has not passed through the struggle of creating a nation-wide movement from nothing will ever know what they have endured. But the spirit of Fascism has triumphed over all. From every blow our movement has returned the stronger, and from every prophecy of our destruction it has arisen the more vital and determined.

To-day the whole nation realises that this force cannot be crushed. To-morrow they will realise that it must triumph.

The new movement has been created by the steady and progressive discovery of men and women all over Britain on whom Fascism can rely because they have proved steadfast in ordeal and struggle. At first our lack of resources, combined with the rush of recruits, made organisation difficult, but the early problems were gradually overcome as we developed the methods of organisation which now can stand any strain.

The beginning of 1935 marks a great new development in our organisation and method. Blackshirt organisation is now divided from political organisation. Both men and women are divided into political and Blackshirt organisations, according to their bent and inclination in the work they desire to perform for Fascism. Without the spirit of the Blackshirt Fascism would never have lived in Britain. The Blackshirt movement has created Fascism, and the pure flame of that spirit must be preserved as the inspiration of the future. The Blackshirts will remain the missionary and propaganda movement of Fascism for the conversion of the people to Fascism and the maintenance of the faith.

At the same time we desire now to utilise the service of members who for many diverse reasons cannot wear the black shirt or do not wish to wear it. The public as a whole do not realise that only about one in 10 of our members wear the black shirt. We wish not only to use these existing members but also to attract to our movement the thousands of patriots who believe that Fascism can bring salvation to Britain, but wish to work for it in an ordinary political fashion. They will assist us in the creation of our political organisation, the object of which is to build an electoral machine in every constituency. For we seek power in a legal and constitutional manner by the capture of a majority in Parliament.

To join the British Union of Fascists as a political member will not entail any obligation of active service to the cause, although all members are expected in their various ways to do what they can to advance it. They will wear ordinary clothes and will operate in the ordinary fashion of normal political movements. Such political members will be invited to take part in constituency organisation exactly in the same manner as the existing political organisations invite their members to undertake canvass work and all the other duties which are involved in the winning of elections.

Parallel with the political organisation, the Blackshirt movement will find a yet greater function and development. It will be the spearhead of Britain by mass propaganda. Definite service to the cause will be an obligation of Blackshirt membership. A Blackshirt member will perform service amounting to at least two evenings a week. This work will vary from the vital work of canvass in the constituencies in co-operation with the political organisation to stewarding meetings; selling literature in the streets; distributing free literature; physical training; and propaganda marches.

Henceforward the basis of Blackshirt life will be the unit system, and work in an organised unit will be the condition of Blackshirt membership. Every Blackshirt is to be organised in a definite unit under a unit leader. The ideal is a unit of friends with similar interests and outlook who together dedicate themselves to the cause.

The unit will be the basis of Blackshirt life. As friends and brothers in Fascism the ideal unit thinks, works, and plays together. Each unit is a microcosm of the greater Brotherhood of Fascism. The Blackshirt Movement will become more than ever a dedicated body of men and women giving their lives to the service of their country and united by the indissoluble bonds of Fascist Brotherhood.

Throughout, the leadership principle will prevail as opposed to the bicker and indecision of democratic committees. Promotion will be by the natural selection of proved capacity and the ability to lead, which will be determined by the practical achievements of the leaders in forming units and sections for service to Fascism. The unit leader owes to those below him the responsibility to lead and to those above him the responsibility to follow. Thus a system of action will challenge and conquer the system of talk.

These are new forms and new methods in British politics; therefore they are resented with fury by the old, the established, and the complacent.

But are not new forms and methods required in Britain to-day? Can we conquer the problems of the twentieth century with the methods of the nineteenth? Above all, can we meet the many difficulties of the age with anything less decisive and victorious than the spirit of the twentieth century?

A new force arises in Britain from the need of the hour. To everyone we offer service according to his or her inclination and ability. Let those who would serve Britain march with us.

magistrate or judge shall seem necessary. Provided that if the appellant is in prison, no such security shall be required, and on such stay as aforesaid, the appellant shall be treated, pending the determination of his appeal, in such manner as may be directed by the rules made under the Prisons Ordinance, 1932, for the case of persons awaiting trial.

The judge may reserve the appeal, or any point in the appeal, for the consideration of the Full Court, or may direct the appeal, or point in the appeal, to be argued before the Full Court; and the Full Court shall have power to hear and determine any such appeal or point, as reserved or as directed to be argued.

QUESTION OF COST

(1) where he allows the appeal, direct that there shall be included in any costs to be paid by the respondent to the appellant, the costs properly incurred by the appellant in the proceedings before the magistrate, or such fixed sum as the judge may consider reasonable in respect of the costs so incurred by him;

(2) in any case, in lieu of directing a taxation of costs, fix the sum to be paid by way of costs by either party to the appeal; and in fixing, for the purpose of this sub-section, the amount of any costs to be paid to a party to an appeal shall have regard to his means.

(3) The payment of costs ordered by the judge to be paid on any such appeal as aforesaid may be enforced, as a civil debt recoverable on a magistrate's summons by the party to whom they are ordered to be paid, and shall not be enforced in any other manner.

MOTOR FATALITY EUROPEAN CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Evidence that at a speed of over 40 miles an hour the skid became so bad that the car was uncontrollable and a release of the brakes was necessary to regain control, was given by Traffic Sergeant T. McInnis against A. E. Ainsworth at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court yesterday afternoon, when a charge of the manslaughter of a Chinese, Ma Ho-tai, was continued before Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, is conducting the case for the Crown, while Mr. H. C. Macnamara, instructed by Mr. J. M. D'Almeida Remedios, is appearing for the defendant.

Marcellus Francis Houghton, marine engineer living at 16 Victory Avenue, testified that on the day of the accident he was employed as an unpaid apprentice at the Wallace Harper Garage. He saw a car flashing past from the direction of the Star Ferry. Witness estimated the speed then to be about 45 miles an hour. He looked at the car because it seemed to him to be moving at a very fast rate. He went on attending to a customer when he heard the screeching of brakes. He again saw the car going along at the junction of Jordan Road and it swerved to the right.

To witness it seemed as if the left hand door of the car swung open and something fell out. He ran to the scene and on arrival saw a male Chinese lying on the roadway. He also saw a bicycle lying on the ground in front of the car. He saw a Chinese youth pick himself up and the bicycle. He did not notice Ainsworth but saw an Indian constable.

Cyclist's Evidence

Huang For, unemployed of 32 Haiphong Road, testified that he was riding a bicycle on February 1, and had turned right into Jordan Road from Nathan Road. When near the traffic light he saw a motor car about five feet from the traffic control sign (20 m.p.h.) coming from the direction of the Star Ferry. The car seemed to be going very fast and witness did not hear any horn sounded. The right front wheel of the car knocked him down. He saw a man lying on the roadway between the white lines but he did not see him knocked down.

Cross-examined by Counsel for the defence, witness said that when he first saw the deceased he was about to turn right on his bicycle. Deceased was in Jordan Road on the Yaumati side. He was quite sure the deceased stepped off the north-west pavement corner and not off the west traffic island in Jordan Road.

Police Constable Bakht Singh deposed to seeing car No. 4105 coming towards Yaumati from the Star Ferry. It was going fast. He did not see it strike the man but he heard the screeching sound of the motor.

Police Sergeant E. A. Mallett, attached to Yaumati Police Station, gave evidence that he was patrolling Nathan Road near Bowling Street towards Kowloon, when he heard a crash. Proceeding to the junction of Nathan Road and Jordan Road, he saw car No. 4105 stationary. It was on the north island of the junction practically on the white line facing across Nathan Road, facing towards Hung Hom. He saw Ainsworth, who stated that he was coming from Tsimshatsui and in order to avoid a pedestrian he swerved to the right and collided with the refuge post but knocked the person down.

Tests of Brakes

Traffic Sergeant T. McInnis, Motor Vehicle Inspector, Kowloon, deposed to finding two skid marks which ended at the refuge island. The east skid mark was 85 feet in length and the west 97 feet in length. They were not parallel all the way and curved to the right. He found Ainsworth in the charge room of the Water Police Station and the car was also at the station.

Witness examined the car the following day and found the left foot board smashed in, the chassis being slightly bent in corresponding position. On February 3, he took the car to Nathan Road and at 30 miles per hour it stopped in 76 feet. The road was dry as it was on February 1. The car, in witness's opinion, should have pulled up in 50 to 55 feet at that speed.

Mr. Macnamara objected to the admissibility of the evidence remarking that it was only a matter of opinion.

At Counsel's request, Mr. Fraser examined the witness as to his experience in traffic matters.

Witness replied he had been in the Traffic Department since June, 1928, and his work had been traffic control, motor vehicle inspector, Hongkong, and was at present motor vehicle inspector, Kowloon. He had previous experience as a motor mechanic in Scotland. He had previously given opinion evidence in a Magistrate's Court in Hongkong. Mr. Wynne-Jones remarked that he had never discovered the precise meaning of expert, as used in this connection. He liked

WAR DANGER REMOTE

BISHOP HALL ON OUTLOOK

"The reason for my conviction that there will be no major war in this generation is my observation that re-awakened national sentiment is providing just that note of reality and power which has been needed to make effective and practical the economic intelligence underlying Communism and Socialism," said the Rt. Rev. R. O. Hall, Bishop of Victoria, in the course of his presidential address at the annual meeting of the Hongkong branch of the League of Nations Society at the Helena May Institute last evening.

There were three factors making for peace, international idealism, religion and economic necessity, said the Bishop and of these the least effective was international idealism and the most effective economic necessity.

Election of Officers. The following officers were elected: President, the Rt. Rev. R. O. Hall; vice-presidents, Chev. J. M. Alves, the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, Professor Robertson, the Hon. Sir William Shenton and the Hon. Dr. S. W. T'ao; Hon. Treasurer, Dr. Y. S. Wan; Hon. Secretary, Mr. S. V. Boxer; Asst. Hon. Secretary, Miss Griffin; Hon. Auditor, Mr. W. N. Thomas; Hon. Secretary, the above named officers, together with Mr. A. C. Arculli, Miss Buxton, Miss Baxter, Mr. M. A. Cooper, Mr. R. C. H. Lim, Mr. A. N. Macfadyen, Rev. Fr. MacDonald, Dr. R. Montgomery, Dr. K. L. Keichelt, Mr. A. H. Reynolds, Mr. R. Saito, Mrs. Kennedy Skiplon, Mr. George She, Miss Swift, Mr. Talati, Mr. W. N. Thomas, Tam, Rev. P. S. F. T'ao, and Dr. K. H. Utley; Executive Committee, Hon. Secretary, Asst. Hon. Secretary, Hon. Treasurer, Mr. A. C. Arculli, Miss Buxton, Mr. M. A. Cooper, Mr. Wm. C. Felshaw, Mr. E. Hingworth, Mr. R. C. H. Lim, Mr. A. N. Macfadyen, Rev. Fr. MacDonald, Mr. George She, Mr. W. N. Thomas, Tam, Rev. P. S. F. T'ao and Dr. K. H. Utley.

At the conclusion of the business the President proposed a vote of thanks to the officers of the Society.

to go to the derivation and that was the evidence of one who was experienced. Mr. Macnamara: I am quite prepared to accept this witness as an expert now that my learned friend has examined him.

Continuing, witness stated that at 20 miles per hour the car stopped in 31 feet. It should have stopped at between 20 and 25 feet.

Alleged Uncontrollable

At a speed of 30 miles per hour and over the tendency was for the rear of the car to swing left when the brakes were applied. At a speed of over 40 miles per hour the skid became so bad that the car was uncontrollable and the brakes had to be released to regain control of the car, added witness. The skidding was due to unbalanced brakes and bad adjustment.

Witness gave detailed results of another test carried out in Gascoigne Road on April 1. Mr. Macnamara objected remarking that the defence were not informed of the tests, when they could easily have been.

Cross-examined by Mr. Macnamara, witness stated the car was now kept at the Water Police Station garage. It had been brought to Court from time to time and was safe to drive at a slow speed. To his knowledge, the car had been kept in the open for two nights. Ainsworth complained, and the vehicle was put in the garage.

Witness agreed that the wet weather since February 1 would have some effect on the car, but as regards the brakes it would have the tendency to make them better for the first two or three miles.

Re-examined by Mr. Fraser, witness stated that no adjustments to the car had been altered. The hearing was adjourned to Monday afternoon. Defendant is on bail.

Mr. Fraser offered the defence every facility to carry out tests with the car. Mr. Macnamara replied that they would probably accept the kind offer made.

IMPROVEMENT IN TRADE RELATIONS

Moscow, April 4.

Considerable development of Japanese-Soviet economic relations, as a result of the Chinese Eastern Railway settlement, is prophesied by Mr. A. P. Rosenholz, the Commissioner for Foreign Trade, who said that Russian purchases from Japan will probably include textiles, ships, rice, tea and electrical machinery.

It is expected, furthermore, that Japan will be interested in a number of Soviet exports, and in this connection a committee of technical experts will be sent to Japan shortly to negotiate.—Reuters.

Much interest was displayed in the wedding which took place at Community Church, Shanghai, between Mr. Walter C. Kent, formerly of Aviation School, Hongchow, and Miss Chiyo M. Brown, daughter of Mr. T. B. Brown. The above photograph of the bridal pair was taken outside the church after the ceremony.

QUEER OLD TABOO

CHINESE WOMEN AND STAGE

Peiping.
Two hundred years ago the Emperor Chien Lung married an actress. To-day a fifteen-year-old school-girl, Miss Berlin Ning, is a little sorry he did, for that particular marriage has had not a little to do with her having to give up a promising stage career.

Actors, as a class, were always considered among the rogues, vagabonds and thieves. When the Emperor defied tradition and married an actress he decreed that henceforth women must not appear on the stage. His reasoning is said to have been that although he had married a woman of a despised class, if he abolished the class entirely, presto, her undesirable background would be swept away.

Whether or not he succeeded to his own satisfaction is not recorded, but the ban against women appearing on the stage in turn became a tradition rigidly observed even long after China had become a republic. Only during the past few years have women begun to appear, and then only in theatres where all the performers were women, or as amateurs.

It was as an amateur that vivacious little Miss Ning recently began to score. Crowds flocked to the theatre where she played the traditional romantic roles with such grace, ability and aplomb as to rival even the best of the famous female impersonators for which Peiping is noted.

But the old prejudices hung on and were reflected in the "Mosquito papers," scandal sheets which observe about as much reserve and delicacy as American tabloids, but which are even more inventive. And now the Municipal Bureau of Social Welfare has stepped in. Deeming such publicity about a mere school-girl unseemly, it has ordered the high-school authorities to see that she gives up her acting, and has even warned the theatre that she must not be permitted to appear. Her father, an authority on international law, has agreed to abide by the wishes of the authorities, although at the same time he maintains that there is no legal ground for the order.

Asked why his daughter had been named Pei-lin (Chinese for Berlin), he replied that she had been born in the German capital when he was studying there. He also has a son named Paris (Pa-li) and one known as Tokyo (Tung-ching), both named according to the same system.—United Press.

THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1935

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 is the biggest and roomiest Ford car ever built. It is a strikingly handsome car, with modern but not extreme lines and new, luxurious appointments.

But most important of all it is especially designed to give you smooth, easy riding over all kinds of roads—"a front-seat ride for back-seat riders."

COMFORT TO MATCH MODERN PERFORMANCE OF V-8 ENGINE

This ease of riding is achieved by the use of three basic principles never before combined in a low price car.

1. Correct distribution of car weight by moving engine and body forward eight and a-half inches.
2. New location of seats by which the rear seat is moved forward, toward the centre of the car, away from the rear axle and away from the bumps.

ALL FORD TRUCKS AND CARS SOLD IN HONGKONG ARE BRITISH PRODUCTS—NOT SUBJECT TO REGISTRATION TAX.

NOW ON DISPLAY

A NEW FORD V-8 THAT BRINGS NEW BEAUTY, NEW SAFETY, AND A NEW KIND OF RIDING COMFORT WITHIN REACH OF MILLIONS OF PEOPLE.

3. New spring suspension which permits the use of longer, more flexible springs and increases the springbase to 123 inches.

This result is Centre-Poise—which not only gives you a new riding comfort but adds to the stability of the car and its ease of handling. You can take curves with greater safety.

There are many new features in the Ford V-8 for 1935 which make the car still easier to drive.

NEW BRAKES—NEW CLUTCH—EASIER STEERING

New brakes give more power for stopping quickly with far less foot pressure on the pedal. A new type of easy-pressure clutch employs centrifugal force to increase efficiency at higher speeds. New steering mechanism makes the car still easier to handle.

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 retains the V-8 engine which has demonstrated its dependability and economy in the service of more than a million owners. There are refinements: including crank-case ventilation, cast alloy steel crankshaft and copper lead floating connecting-rod bearings—but no change in basic design. You buy premium performance when you buy this Ford V-8—full 85 horsepower, and capable of 80 miles an hour.

Other 1935 Ford features are Safety Glass throughout in all body types at no extra cost. New welded all-steel bodies. New wider rear doors. (Front doors hinged forward). New lower double-channel X-type frame. (Makes it easier to get in and out of the car).

WIDER AND ROOMIER BODIES—LUXURIOUS APPOINTMENTS

Rich, modern body colours, including a new gun-metal finish of striking beauty on De Luxe body types. Luxurious new upholstery and appointments. New, wider pillowed seats and softer seat cushions. (Front seats are 4 to 5 1/2 inches wider). Clear-Vision Ventilation, with adjustable cowl ventilator and a windshield that opens. Combination fuel and oil gauge and heat indicator on instrument board of De Luxe cars.

The spring leaves are tapered for quiet as well as flexibility. Larger tires have a new, wider tread, specially designed for safety and comfort. Bodies are insulated for quiet and temperature.

We invite you to see this New Ford V-8 at the showrooms of Ford dealers. You will want to ride in it—to drive it yourself. You will find it a new experience in motoring.

AMERICAN TOURING TEAM
Tokyo, Mar. 30.
A team of picked basketball players will arrive in Yokohama from the United States on May 6 in the Taiyo Maru for a series of games against Japan's best teams. The visitors meet the Tokyo Imperial University squad, the All-Japan Students' team and the All-Japan team on May 11, 12 and 14 respectively.—Rengo.

A large crowd of all nationalities turned out to the Cathay Tennis Club Shanghai to see the Japanese Davis Cup stars, on route for England, play a series of exhibition games against Shanghai players. Schoolgirls who took up every point of vantage in a neighbouring building thoroughly enjoyed the exhibition and joined heartily in the applause which was given the winners for their fine display. Shanghai's representatives, showing woeful signs of lack of practice were unable to do anything against the tourists. Inset, Yamagishi is shown bringing off a backhand stroke.

Sirdar Rumjahn Beats A Much Better Player

LEE WAI-TONG PLAYS MAGNIFICENTLY

Puzzled Winner Forced On Defensive

(By "Veritas")

THERE WAS A RARE OCCURRENCE IN THE OPEN SINGLES TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP AT THE HONGKONG CRICKET CLUB YESTERDAY. SIRDAR RUMJAHN BEAT A BETTER PLAYER THAN HIMSELF.

Hitherto Rumjahn's victories have been scored either because he has been superior in stroke equipment to his opponent, or because, if the two players have been evenly matched, he has been able to dictate terms at the right moment.

But yesterday, Lee Wai-tong, whose sporting prowess has hitherto been exclusively associated with the football field, made Rumjahn look a very ordinary player, and instead of losing "8-6" in the first set, should have clinched the match after breaking through his opponent's service to lead 4-2.

It was Lee's refusal to adopt safety tactics at the crucial stage of that third set which chiefly accounted for his defeat, but it was a glorious defeat, far greater than his success against Pincher or any other of his achievements on the tennis court.

WELL EQUIPPED PLAYER

Lee Wai-tong's tennis seems to have burst into full bloom overnight like a rose. His command of strokes makes him one of the best equipped players in the Colony. Not even Tsui Wai-pui, who has made an extensive study of the stroke books, such as a fine drop shot as Lee. He scored time after time with his drop shot and drop volley against Rumjahn.

To force Rumjahn on the defensive for two and a half sets is no mean feat in itself. But when that player by those methods has secured a lead of 4-2 in the final set with his own service to follow, it is a distinct achievement.

Unfortunately for Lee he reacted badly to the situation. Probably he never conceived it possible for him to reach such a position against a player of Rumjahn's calibre. Whatever the cause he made three bad mistakes in the seventh game, and in losing his service, lost the match.

Throughout the match Lee's courtcraft was excellent. He obtained a line length in driving and kept the balls moving from corner to corner before taking the net to score with delicate stop and drop volleys which invariably left Rumjahn outpositioned on the baseline. When Rumjahn took the net Lee pulled out clever, John which forced the Indian back again to the rear of the court.

By such tactics, and his admirable ball control Lee dominated the changes in the first and third sets. Rumjahn was never in the same street in the exploitation of the sub-

IMPROVEMENT NEEDED

IF CLUB ARE TO BEAT RECREIO THIS AFTERNOON

(By "Veritas")

If the Club wish to beat the Recreio this afternoon and assist themselves towards the runners-up position in the first division they will have to show vast improvement on last Wednesday's form.

The Valley team is making two changes from the side which appeared against Kowloon. Ian Sterling, who has played a lot of football in Canton, is turning out at right back vice Manning Bailton, while Fowler returns to the right wing to displace Forrow.

Recreio are not anticipating any changes, but I am not informed as to their actual line-up, although I believe A.V. Gosano will figure in the defence.

If Howe is to be stepped from repeating his hat-trick, Gosano will be required at full-back. He is one of the few local players who can hold the clever Club centre-forward. They should have some interesting duels.

There is more than ordinary interest attached to the game between South China "B" and the Police.

Quite apart from the fact that both are in the running for second place, the match forms a prelude to next week's Senior Shield final. Neither team is likely to produce its best today, for a hard game may mean injured players and they cannot afford to take the risk.

Nevertheless the match should provide good entertainment, with the odds slightly in favour of the Police by virtue of ground advantage.

The Artillery are letting well alone for their match with the Fusiliers, but I cannot see the Fusiliers holding the Regiment. The Fusiliers on form are vastly superior to the Artillery. The R.A. will line-up as follows:—Durham, Worthington, and Clancy; Hunt, Morton, and Harris; Smith, Edmunds, Brown, Knight and Taylor.

South China "A" will naturally be all out to retain their fine league record, and as they haven't got to worry about the championship, they will probably win quite comfortably against the East Lancers to-day.

The only change contemplated in the Chinese line-up is the return of

THIRTEEN RECORDS SMASHED BY CAR

10,000 Miles Covered By One-Litre Model

Berlin, Mar. 31.

After circling around the 20 kilometres Avus track uninterruptedly for over six days at an average speed of 106.36 kilometres per hour, the 1 litre Adler car succeeded in establishing no less than thirteen world records for cars of this class.

The total distance travelled, when the car finally stopped at three o'clock to-day, was 10,000 miles, which were covered in 151 hours, 18 minutes and 11 seconds, thus beating the previous record put up by a Frenchman in 1926 by 52 hours.

A proof of the machine's excellent condition at the end of this exceptionally long high speed trial was given by the fact that the average speed for the last laps was 112 kilometres per hour, which is the same as the speed maintained during the first day's run.

SOLUTION TO SOCCER PROBLEM

SHANGHAI TIMES SUGGESTION

APPOINT NEUTRAL LINESMEN

The appointment of neutral linesmen for first division matches is the solution to the existing intolerable position of football in Shanghai created by riots says the Shanghai Times in a trenchant article dealing with last Saturday's affair at the Stadium, when players attacked the referee and the crowd rushed the ground.

That effective measures must be taken is obvious. If they are not, then it means that the actual life of a referee will be at stake every time he officiates at a match, a condition of affairs which will soon lead to a falling off in the supply of these too-often ill-treated sportsmen.

Referees in Shanghai have been criticized; that is the fate of every man who performs a public benefit whether for gain or pleasure. But criticism of referees should stop at words. When brickbats are thrown with the bouquets, it is time for the authorities to step in, and step in firmly.

ROWDY SPECTATORS

It is not my intention to discuss the incidents which culminated eventually in a riot on Saturday. No doubt there was blame on all sides, and particularly among the rowdy element which unfortunately is attracted by soccer. It is the principle of a player's attitude towards the referee which I wish to stress.

No matter whether the referee is right or wrong, he must be obeyed on the field of sport. If a team has any complaint to make, it should be made to the proper bodies after the match. That is the first principle of sportsmanship. In soccer, above all games, it should be applied religiously, for the referee has no protection whatever; he is alone in the middle of a large field, surrounded by twenty-two players and possibly thousands of spectators, and however much blessed he may appear, he should at least be given the benefit of the doubt until the odds are more even.

No player could in cold blood believe for a minute that a referee would attempt to be biased while thousands of eyes are watching him. Errors are made, and no-one denies it. But cases as actual bias on the part of an official are few, and are confined to very minor details.

ACTION WANTED

There are two bodies in Shanghai which are always prepared to hear the complaint of any team, these being the Referees' Association and the Shanghai Football Association. Instead of being called on to consider a complaint against a referee, these authorities are now called on to consider a serious complaint against the sportsmanship of a team and thousands of spectators.

The latter, unfortunately, are beyond the reach of the law, or otherwise proceedings might be taken beyond the limits of the friendly conference room. The team, however, must have its case heard and justice meted out.

If the Shanghai Football Association Executive Committee finds the Tung Iwa team guilty of action contrary to the spirit of the game or the rules, it should take such action as will definitely prevent any repetition of scenes which were witnessed at the Stadium.

MAGNIFICENT TENNIS BY LEE WAI-TONG

Letties of the game, and had to content himself with a regular return of the ball with but little variation in flight, length, direction or pace. But it is to Sirdar's credit that he refused to be depressed by the state of the game. He raced all over the court to retrieve what appeared to be outright winners; and in the end it was his consistent return of the ball which caused Lee to crumple up.

Rumjahn, of course, made fewer mistakes than Lee; this had to be expected in view of their contrasting types of play. The past has proved that there is no more skilful defender than Rumjahn when he is forced into that position. His game, in fact, has been founded on defence.

WHY RUMJAHN WON

Rumjahn's only consistent attacking stroke was a cross-court forehand drive which several times passed Lee or found his feet. The winners' volleys were accurate but not very decisive as Lee's. When Lee volleyed it was for outright winners; Rumjahn on the other hand generally had to depend on Lee making a mistake in his return.

The first set found Lee completely on top. His smoothly produced strokes worked with the precision of a machine. So accurate was he in his placements that he was able to operate from pretty nearly one position on the baseline. When he reached the net, which was often, he pulled out his delightful short volleys which had both angle and back spin.

RUMJAHNIAN STYLE

It was not until the second set that Rumjahn was able to assert himself in true Rumjahnian style, then, taking his courage in both hands he went to the forecourt and put away Lee's lob with a succession of really good overhead smashes.

With Rumjahn taking the next four games in a row it was generally felt that Lee had shot his bolt. On the other hand it was plain that the C.R.C. exponent was in no wise disconcerted by the turn of the game. He continued to play well within himself, pulling out winning strokes with regularity. The players conceded their service in the first four games of the vital third set. Then Lee held his own for the fifth game and by means of some brilliant play broke through Rumjahn's delivery for 4-2.

Everything now pointed to an unexpected victory. Lee had served quite well up to this point, but in the seventh game he twice overhit and lost the game on a fancy stroke at the net which found the tape.

Rumjahn drew up to four-all on his service, was led 5-4, levelled at five-all, broke through Lee's service in the eleventh game and when all seemed over bar the shouting lost his own service to love in the twelfth game.

BEST MATCH AS YET

In this remarkable game Rumjahn started off with a double-fault, overhit a drive and was then twice beaten outright by Lee perfect drop shots.

Again Lee lost his service, and he was obviously feeling the strain. Rumjahn went to 30-love in the match game, lost the next point, won the next and finished the game by forcing Lee into an error.

This ranks as the best match of the tournament to date. It was highly entertaining tennis. The heavy going was not helpful, but both players ignored this handicap, and Lee actually turned it to his account as it allowed him to employ heavily chopped strokes on both hands with telling effect.

Rumjahn cannot be denied the worthiness of his victory because it was obtained through great pertinacity; but one cannot help sympathizing with Lee Wai-tong, who undoubtedly played the purer tennis, and deserved to win if only because of his better strokes and his clever court-craft.

RICKETTS' CARRIES ON

On an adjoining court, J. W. Leonard met his Waterloo at the hands of G.R.M. Ricketts, who always had plenty in reserve and was content to outdrive the Craigengower representative. Leonard was upset by the pace of Ricketts' shots which continually forced him into false returns. Ricketts gave away one game in the first set and three in the second.

Neither player was at his best, but of Ricketts' superiority there was no question.

Solution To Soccer Problem

of course, will be suspension. But what will the Association do about its part in the affair? for the Association certainly failed in what-over guilt there may be? Incidents in matches between Chinese and Foreign teams have occurred yearly ever since Chinese and Foreign teams first played the game together. A review of these incidents shows that all of them could have been prevented had there been on the sidelines a neutral man, on whom the referee could depend to call on to throw the casting vote in the case of a doubtful decision.

THREE REFEREE SYSTEM
Some time ago The Shanghai Times recommended that in the case of International matches, whether league or cup-ties, linesmen should be supplied by the Referee's Association and as such, should be placed in a position to make decisions which are binding on the referees.

This recommendation seemed to have met the approval of the S.F.A. for one or two matches, but after it had been tried, and found eminently successful, the idea was dropped. There is no excuse in pointing out that the present supply of referees does not justify such a heavy call on their services. On the contrary, I have made enquiries and have been given to understand that not only are there sufficient officials available, but the two referees' groups heartily endorse the scheme and would be only too glad to give it their support. I hope that when they meet members of the Executive Committee will again consider the plan and give it their recommendation.

SERIAL STORY

SILKEN SPINDLES

by Laura Lu Brockman

CHAPTER XXXV

It was 10 o'clock and the dance at Parkers' was in full swing. Millie Saunders, in her red blouse, head bent, swaying slightly, was pounding shrill notes of relentless rhythm from the battered piano. Roy Purdy's violin joined in, none too skilfully, but Tony Atlett's accordion was unfailing. Tony himself, bobbing like a top, beamed at everyone.

Couples circled the floor, some with heads close together, scarcely moving, others whirling and dipping, still others hopping grotesquely. The dancers swayed and jostled and got in each other's way, but managed to get on again. A youth with broad shoulders and the profile of a Greek athlete clamping in his arms a gamine-faced little brunette. A square man in a ruddy-faced youth with small, good-natured eyes. Josie was wearing the brown dress with the new plaid collar. She called out, "Where've you been? I've been looking for you all evening!"

"We only came a little while ago," Gale told her. "Some dance, isn't it?" Josie grinned. "Everybody's here—other dancers came between them, separating them. Katie Schantz and her young husband passed, looking so happy that Gale smiled. Katie saw her and smiled back.

Gale started to say, "Steve, I think—" but a black-eyed youth with dark hair plastered back severely, cut in and took her away so that she could not finish the sentence.

Someone caught the megaphone and the drummer tried to recapture it. There was a scuffle, ending in loud laughter. Gale, dancing with Steve asked, "What's going on?"

"Nothing," Steve said. "Just Ted Frisbie clowning around the way he always does."

A couple danced toward them and the girl raised her hand from her partner's shoulder, waved it. It was Josie and a ruddy-faced youth with small, good-natured eyes. Josie was wearing the brown dress with the new plaid collar. She called out, "Where've you been? I've been looking for you all evening!"

In addition to Jack Buchanan and Elsie Randolph there are three other artists in the film version of "That's A Good Girl" who also played in it on the stage. Others in the supporting cast are Vera Pearce, Kate Cutler, Garry Marsh, William Kendall and Frank Stanmore.

"Flirtation Walk"

Teams, as well as individuals have been selected for the search for romantic combinations of players, hoping always to find another Ruby Keeler-Dick Powell duo. Janet Gaynor-Charles Farrell duo of favourites, the first association of the players is almost always accidental. Dick Powell and Miss Keeler, who receive more fan mail of a romantic nature than any other player in Hollywood, are now co-starred in the First National production "Flirtation Walk," which opens to-morrow at the Central Theatre. The two are again lovers in a picture that is a mammoth musical with a thrilling plot and an enchanting romance of life in the United States Army at Hawaii and at West Point. There is an all-star cast headed by Powell, Miss Keeler and Pat O'Brien and including such talented players as Ross Alexander, John Eldredge, Glen Boles, Henry O'Neill, John Arledge and Gail Williams.

"Lottery Lover"

"Breaking into pictures to-day is no different nor any more difficult, than it was several years ago," says Low Ayres, Fox Film player who has the leading male role in "Lottery Lover," which arrives at the King's Theatre on Tuesday. "There isn't any formula nor chart one can follow in seeking screen careers. Of course there is the usual procedure of starting in a stock company, proceeding to Broadway and being discovered there and sent to Hollywood. But this method presents its difficulties and luck counts just as much in securing a break in this way as in battering down the doors of studios through the extra route. "Most screen players are superstitious about the way they broke into pictures. My first was wearing a uniform and always considered any picture in which I wear any type of uniform an omen of good luck. In "Lottery Lover" I have the role of a naval cadet. Featured with Ayres in "Lottery Lover" are "Pat" Peterson and Peggy Fears. "Didn't know" new Fox Film imports from Broadway. Other players are Walter King, Alan Dinehart, Reginald Denny and Nick Foran.

"The Kansas City Princess"

Joan Blondell and Glenda Farrell, the pair of charming bombshells who caused explosions of laughter in "Havana Widows" and other pictures, again are teamed as a couple of chiseling, gold digging manicurists in the Warner Bros. picture, "The Kansas City Princess," which comes to the Central Theatre on Wednesday. Supporting this comedy pair are such famous comedians as Hugh Herbert, Robert Armstrong, Osgood Perkins, Hobart Cavanaugh and Gordon Westcott, which places "The Kansas City Princess" high in the ranks of riotous fun makers. The story is by Sy Bartlett and Manuel Selt, and has more mad mix-ups and merry love triangles crowded into the plot than are found in half a dozen books.

"The Night Is Young"

Nights of love, days of laughter, and the haunting spell of romantic love are echoed in the remarkable new camp of screen entertainment created by Oscar Hammerstein II and Sigmund Romberg, creators of "Desert Song" and "New Moon." This is "The Night Is Young" glamorous love story of Vienna, now playing at the Queen's Theatre and bringing with it the lovely English star, Evelyn Laye as a teammate for Ramon Novarro. "The Night Is Young" has at last achieved the problem of blending music, drama, comedy and romance into a perfect and uninterrupted whole. Its players do not suddenly burst into song. Its music runs entirely through the picture, every note a vital component part. Haunting melodies, all introduced by clover and novel devices, give it a charming continental flavour, and entrance one from first scene to the final fade-out. It has a gripping story, spectacular settings and infinite but instead, a squarely-built, bulky figure loomed beside her. Ed Vogel said, "Come on, honey," and the girl slipped into his arms. They danced away together, busy looking back, smiling, over his shoulder.

"Want to dance?" Steve asked. "Gale said, 'I'd rather not. Don't you think it's awfully warm in here? Is there any place where the air isn't so stuffy?'"

"Let's take a look?" Steve said. He led the way to a smaller room at the front of the building, a sort of entrance. It was decorated nov. A single globe hung from the ceiling, lighting the room rather dimly. At one side there was a counter where occasionally, soft drinks were sold. The wall behind it was decorated with calendars and window cards advertising various beverages. But there was nothing for sale to-night.

Steve said, "Take this better? It's cooler, anyhow."

"Much better," Gale agreed. "I'll get some chairs."

Gale stopped him. "Don't bother," she said. "Look, we can sit here." She swung herself up to the broad ledge of the window. Steve took his place beside her.

The music, coming from a distance, sounded less strident. Steve, looking down at the girl, hummed the melody softly. He said, slipping his hand over hers, "Well, have you been having a good time?"

Gale nodded, smiling. They were silent a few moments. Then, Steve went on, "You look awfully pretty to-night, Gale. Did you know that? You're the prettiest girl here."

"But it's true. There isn't one of them who can compare with you for looks. Not one!"

Now was the time, Gale thought, to tell him what she had made up her mind to say. She had tried to say it earlier in the evening, had put it off. But there was no use delaying any longer. Steve had been so patient, waiting for her answer. He had proven himself over and over again, his fine qualities, his devotion. And Steve was the man she was going to marry.

Her fingers, clasped in his, tightened. Gale said, almost in a whisper, "Do you remember—?"

Almost as she spoke the last notes of the dance tune ended and the shuffling feet came to a halt. There was a buzz of voices from the room within, a single voice rang out, shrill, high-pitched. A man's voice, angry, defiant.

Gale swung to her feet, the colour gone from her face. "It's Phil!" she said.

Phil Henderson's voice rose again from the room beyond. "Let 'em try to stop me!" he shouted. "Just let 'em try it!"

Gale caught Steve's arm. "We've got to do something!" she said. "Oh, Steve—"

Without waiting, she ran into the dance hall.

There is a talented cast of comedy players in the important roles.

Frank McHugh, who plays the part of Joe's pal, and rides as his team mate, is a far better comedian than he is a rider. Maxine Doyle, a comparative newcomer to the screen, was selected for her charm and beauty to be Joe's leading lady. Gordon Westcott has the part of the city slicker, while Arthur Aylesworth, famous on the New York stage, is the banker father of Joe's girl. Lottie Williams plays the part of her mother while Dorothy Christy is the blonde "other woman" in the case. Others in the cast include Harry Seymour as the radio announcer at the races, Lloyd Neal and William Granger.

CHINA EXPECTS BIG LOAN

BRITAIN AND U.S. PLANNING AID

Shanghai, April 5.

Competent observers in local financial circles predict that proposed financial aids jointly extended to China by Britain and the United States in the form of a big loan, would be realised sooner or later, as the present circumstances are favourable for it, especially in view of the fact that the United States Government could find no other alternative measure to help China.

It is believed that President Roosevelt feels it impossible for him to make any change in his silver purchase policy, which has been mandatory by Congress, although, according to Chinese official intimation, efforts are still being made to induce the American Government to modify it in favour of China. —Central News.
